“ I don't know that there's a prayer for peace that can steady a hand or hold our heads when our heads can't hold on. Please trust, every hour you are loved, cried for, and prayed for.
In brokenness, unable to understand my God that I pray to, that holding the legs of angels He needed your precious one more and called him home... My most humble offering is the prayer that Jesus cried out in the garden, "Father I don't understand you, but I trust you".
God promised, "I never leave you", as you learn to live differently, whether warm sun on your shoulders or the wind that plays with your hair, may you feel your beautiful boy holding you until you can make it on own. He's the drum in your chest.
Each of you, I profoundly and completely love you.
